SEC. 32. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the nationality, last permanent residence, and intended final destination of each alien who is destined for the United States or who is to be transferred to any island possession of the United States, and the immigration officials at the various ports of arrival in the United States shall have the right to go and be upon any such vessel at any time before the departure of any alien employed thereon for the purpose of examining into the facts concerning the right of any such alien to enter the United States, and to remain therein, and for the purpose of determining whether any such alien belongs to any of the classes excluded from admission to the United States. Such immigration officials shall have the right to detain any such vessel for a period not exceeding five hours after the arrival thereof in connection with the performance of their duties hereunder, and to take and consider the evidence of any witness relative to any such matter under oath which may be administered by any such officials. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses to comply with the provisions of this section or any rule or regulation made thereunder shall pay to the collector of customs for the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. When an arriving seaman is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all persons employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those so to be hired on the discharge in the port of arrival; or lists containing no more of such information as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who may leave port thereon at the time of the departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired or discharged, and of those who have deserted or landed: Provided, That in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to so deliver lists of those, if any, who have deserted or landed: in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to so report any alien employee who may be entitled to be admitted to the United States as a returning resident, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall be required to pay to the Secretary of Labor, upon demand of the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located, the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of such additional sum or bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof as such collector upon the determination of such liability may require.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be found on board such vessel after she has departed from the last port of call in the United States, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of the provisions of this section by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to secure treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alien's departure, unless (a) the master, purser, or person in charge of such vessel shall deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival from the United States a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay the cost of returning such alien seaman to the place from which he came to the United States, or (b) such alien seaman is in possession of a valid passport and an unexpired immigration visa. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act, and shall be ineligible to citizenship. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 155.)

SEC. 32. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, other than from a foreign contiguous territory, shall be required to take on board such vessel at the port of departure and to carry to the port of arrival in the United States such alien seamen as may be ordered on board such vessel by any immigration officer at the port of arrival (each inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officer), and to detain such alien seamen on board until such inspection or to deport such seamen if adjudged by such immigration officer to be suffering from any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be the ground for excluding such seamen from admission into the United States. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deportation order in any case in which he is satisfied that sufficient guaranty has been given by the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel that such alien seaman will be specially detained on board such vessel, or otherwise, while in port, and will be deported on such vessel or another vessel in the employ of the same interests. The Attorney General may require such bond as he may deem necessary to insure compliance with the conditions of such guaranty. Such bond shall not be required in excess of $1,000 for each alien seaman. Failure to deport any alien seaman in respect to whom such a bond has been given shall render the whole amount of such bond immediately due and payable as a penalty. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such guaranty as to any alien seaman upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such alien's maintenance and deportation for a period not to exceed five days. The Attorney General may prescribe such regulations as he may deem necessary for the administration of this subdivision, and may provide for the employment, maintenance, and transportation to the vessel on which they are to be deported of such alien seamen while detained under the provisions of this subdivision. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this subdivision, or any regulation made thereunder, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $2,000 for each seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. Such fine may be remitted as the Attorney General or his delegated agent shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens arriving on or subsequent to June 5, 1924.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States on any vessel on which he arrived in the United States from a place outside thereof, or shall have been removed from any place outside thereof, to which he was returned under the provisions of this section, shall be deported as a stowaway in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act, and shall be ineligible to citizenship.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman or to the master of such vessel, he may cause such seaman to be detained in a hospital, almshouse, or other place of detention approved by him, at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be allowed for more than 30 days, and thereafter such seaman shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 156 (a), 156 (c).)

No vessel shall be granted clearance while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the matter upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those of the said aliens, if any, who have been previously employed on any vessel engaged in the trade between the United States and any foreign port, and also as to such aliens the names of the vessels in which they were so employed, the ports from which they sailed, and the ports at which they were discharged: and it shall be the duty of the master of the vessel, before granting a clearance to any such vessel, to require a production of the lists required by this section, and to ascertain from the said lists and from the immigrant inspector whether all aliens employed on such vessel have been duly listed and reported, and whether the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel has complied with the provisions of this section; and if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the immigrant inspector that the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel has refused or neglected to list any alien employed on such vessel, or has knowingly made false statements in the lists furnished, or has refused to answer any question put to him by the immigrant inspector touching the employment of any alien on such vessel, or the compliance with the provisions of this section of any alien employed thereon as to which question is asked, or has refused to permit any such alien to be listed, or has refused to pay the head tax imposed by section 2 of this Act in the case of any such alien, he shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such refusal, neglect, or misstatement, to be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, whose decision shall be final. Pending the payment of such penalty the vessel may be detained at the port, and clearance withheld notwithstanding the payment or tender of payment of any fine or penalty imposed upon the master or owner thereof, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty: but in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, the vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located and the suit shall be prosecuted by the collector of customs. (e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien, the Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman so taken on board. Such application must be made within one year after the date of the vessel's departure from the United States. Any penalty collected under this section shall be refunded to the master, owner, agent, or consignee who paid it if application for remission is made within one year from the date of payment and the Attorney General remits the penalty.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all foreign seamen who shall come in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that portion of the continent of North America which is south of the United States and north of the fifty-fifth parallel of north latitude, and to all seamen employed on vessels touching at any port of the United States, notwithstanding that such seamen may not intend to land therein. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 193 (a), 193 (c).)

(b) Fines and penalties under this section shall not be remitted by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, but any such fine or penalty may be remitted by the Secretary of Labor upon the recommendation of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any fine or penalty under this section was improperly imposed, or that the alien seaman on whom it was imposed has remained in the United States for good cause beyond the period for which he was admitted, or that such alien seaman has been deported without expense to the United States, or that such alien seaman has been removed at the expense of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived, he may remit such fine or penalty, but no such remission shall be made in any other case. Such remission may be made before or after judgment, and may be upon such terms and conditions as the Attorney General may deem proper. Application for remission must be made within one year from the date of the payment of the fine or penalty or of the entry of judgment, and notice of such application shall be given to the district attorney of the district in which judgment was entered. (43 Stat. 164–165; 8 U. S. C. 193 (a), 193 (c).)

SEC. 150.2. Duties of alien employees; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master thereof has complied with the provisions of section 36 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 888; 8 U. S. C. 171), have been transmitted, and not then unless notice of inspection of such alien from the United States, except temporary visitors for medical treatment, or transfer to such vessel from another vessel in the United States, except temporary members of the crew, has been received by the master from the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure, or unless the master has satisfied himself that such alien has been duly inspected by such officer or his assistant. (39 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 36. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States with any alien on board, except an alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa and who is coming to the United States solely as a bona fide nonimmigrant visitor for business or pleasure, or who is in possession of a valid unexpired nonimmigrant visa and who is coming to the United States solely to carry on the trade or business of the foreign corporation of which he is an employee, or who is in possession of a valid unexpired nonimmigrant visa and who is coming to the United States solely to attend a school or institution of learning or college, as a bona fide student, which has been approved by the Attorney General after consultation with the Secretary of State, and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport, visa, or other travel document, if required by the regulations of the Department of State, and who is not inadmissible under the quota provisions of section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended, or under section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended, shall, before such vessel shall depart from any port or place in the United States, report the name of such alien, the intended port of debarkation, the number of pieces of baggage belonging to such alien, and such other information in regard to such alien as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person in charge of the examination of aliens. Such report shall be made in writing and shall be signed by the master or commanding officer of such vessel, or by his duly authorized agent, and sworn to before the immigration officer in charge of the port of departure. Such report shall be made in quadruplicate if the vessel is destined to a port where there is a board of special inquiry, and in triplicate if destined to any other port. The master or commanding officer of any vessel who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien as to whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the application of any alien for admission, or pending the physical examination of such alien by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, if such examination is required at the port of arrival, or pending the removal of any alien who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be afflicted with a dangerous contagious disease, or pending the taking of the testimony of any witness in connection therewith, if such application, removal, or taking of testimony is required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person in charge of the examination of aliens. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such penalty as to any one alien or more than one alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 38. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States with any alien on board who is afflicted with any of the mental or physical defects or diseases which would be a ground for the exclusion of such alien from the United States, except temporary visitors for medical treatment, or transfer to such vessel from another vessel in the United States, except temporary members of the crew, shall report the name of such alien to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and such alien shall not be admitted to the United States but shall be detained on board or at quarantine or other place designated by the medical examiner, pending examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and pending the certification by such medical officer to the Attorney General as to the practicability of the removal of such alien without danger to the public health, and pending the action of the Attorney General thereon. Clearance may be granted by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival in respect of such alien, if the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel furnishes a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien examined in respect of whom such failure occurs, as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, conditioned upon the payment of a sum equivalent to the cost of such care, or to a sum not exceeding $300 for each alien in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General may prescribe, conditioned upon the deposit with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located of the sum of $300 for each alien examined in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or pending the removal of any alien who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be afflicted with a dangerous contagious disease, or pending the taking of the testimony of any witness in connection therewith, if such application, removal, or taking of testimony is required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person in charge of the examination of aliens. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such penalty as to any one alien or more than one alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(b) Proof shall be filed as soon as practicable after the arrival of such vessel at a seaport of the United States, and in no instance later than the hour of departure of such vessel from such port, with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and a failure to file such proof shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens arriving subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien named on the vessel on which he arrived will cause serious loss to such vessel or to any person interested therein, and that such alien is not likely to abscond, and that he will be produced when required for hearing or for deportation, and that such vessel will be operated with reasonable dispatch in the interests of navigation and the foreign commerce of the United States, he may, in his discretion, remit the penalty or any part thereof imposed by this section, upon the payment of such sum as he may deem reasonable, not to exceed the amount of the penalty, and upon the deposit of such security as he may deem necessary to assure the payment of such sum as may be finally determined upon. Such remission shall not affect the liability of the vessel for the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such expense shall be exacted before clearance shall be granted to the vessel. (43 Stat. 161–162, 38 Stat. 818; 8 U. S. C. 191 (a), 191 (c).)

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such seaman to the proper immigration officer at the United States port of departure, unless such master shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States and that the failure to deliver such seaman to the proper immigration officer at the United States port of departure was occasioned by the illness or injury of such seaman or his removal from the vessel by competent authority before the departure of the vessel from the United States port, or by his compulsory detention in the United States during the departure of the vessel from such port, or by his failure to report and be examined before departure because of the lack of reasonable opportunity for such examination before departure, or because he was not required by any immigration officer to report for examination before departure, or for other reasons sufficient to excuse him for such failure, and that such seaman has been lawfully admitted to the United States or has been regularly deported at the expense of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or of any other vessel or means of conveyance, or has died, or has become a stowaway and has been dealt with as provided by section 2 of the Act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1165), as amended (U.S.C., 1940 ed., Supp. III, title 8, sec. 71), or has been permitted by the Attorney General to depart from the United States to Canada or Mexico and has actually departed to one of such countries within such time as the Attorney General may have prescribed, and that the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel has not been guilty of any negligence, connivance, or willful default in relation to the departure of such seaman from the United States. Clearance may be withheld or delayed pending the production of such evidence as may be required by the Attorney General. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 27. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such legislation as the Attorney General may prescribe for the allowance of aliens employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General so to do, or shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section as amended shall apply to all penalties arising independent to June 2, 1940.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival like certificates, manifests, and lists or crews, and in such detail and form as may be required by the Attorney General in the case of aliens employed on such vessel: Provided, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the delivery of such certificates, manifests, and lists or crews, or any of the data required to be shown thereon, in the case of any vessel plying regularly between the United States and foreign contiguous territory.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of sickness or injury requiring immediate hospital treatment, only such aliens employed on board such vessel as shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to be in such condition of health as not to endanger the public health during the period of such employment, and only such aliens employed on board such vessel as shall be certified by such immigration officer to be not unacceptable under the immigration laws of the United States. Such certification shall be made only after a personal physical examination by the medical officer or by one of a board of such officers designated for the purpose by the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service. Such examination shall be conducted in accordance with such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall include a personal physical examination by such immigration officer or by one of such officers, unless the vessel is in quarantine, in which case such examination shall be made by the quarantine officer. Any alien seaman found to be suffering from any disease, sickness, or mental or physical defect which is not certified by the immigration officer or the medical officer of the Public Health Service, as provided in this section, shall be detained on board or at quarantine, as the case may be, at the option of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, and such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of sickness or injury requiring immediate hospital treatment, or because of the inability of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived to comply with the provisions of this section, until a certificate has been issued by the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival that the sickness or injury of such alien seaman is not dangerous to the public health: Provided, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the provisions of this section in favor of any alien seaman who has been in the employ of any vessel engaged in trade between the United States and any foreign contiguous territory for a period of twelve months or more immediately preceding the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel on which he arrived from a foreign port or place, or who shall land in the United States from any vessel at a port other than that through which he entered the United States, shall be required, at the time of such landing, to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of landing a sum sufficient to cover the cost of returning such alien seaman to the country whence he came, as determined by the Attorney General, unless such alien seaman is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa and a ticket to a destination beyond the United States, or unless such alien seaman is in possession of a sum sufficient to cover such cost, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the Attorney General. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such requirement as to any alien seaman in respect of whom such finding occurs. Any alien seaman who shall refuse to deposit the amount required by this section, as hereby amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens during subsequent to June 2, 1940.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived is necessary in order to secure the presence of a witness or from any other reason in connection with the prosecution of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel for any violation of the immigration laws, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be charged against the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall prove to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such alien seaman was forced to land by stress of weather or other cause for which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel was not responsible. Any alien seaman who shall refuse to be deported on such vessel shall be liable to deportation proceedings. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to relieve any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel from any penalty or forfeiture imposed by any other provision of law.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 16. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless required as such by regulations of the Attorney General, but shall be deported in the manner provided by section 20 of said Act. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof any alien who has been refused a landing by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and who has been ordered deported from the United States, to detain on board or at such port such alien pending the completion of the journey or the departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall furnish a bond in such sum, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien detained, as may be required by the Attorney General, conditioned for the payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien while detained and of the passage money of such alien if ordered deported, or for the payment of such passage money only if deportation is to country contiguous to the United States. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such bond, and upon receipt by the collector of customs of a bond with sufficient surety in such sum as he may require, or of a cash deposit in such sum, the liability of the obligors on the bond so withdrawn shall be terminated, except that clearance may be refused prior to the determination of the question of the deportability of such alien in the case of any vessel which is required by the provisions of this section to detain such alien on board or at the port of arrival. Any such alien detained on board any vessel may be required to disembark at the option of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, and the cost of detention on shore shall be paid as provided in the case of detention on board. Nothing in this section shall be construed to amend, repeal, or affect any of the provisions of section 16 of this Act.

(b) The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such bond, and upon receipt by the collector of customs a cash deposit in such sum, not exceeding $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall finally prescribe. Any such deposit shall be applied to the payment of the cost of maintenance of such seaman while detained and of his passage money if ordered deported, or to the passage money only if deportation is to country contiguous to the United States, and the residue, if any, after payment of such charges shall be returned to the depositor. Any such deposit, or any bond given under the provisions of this section, may be remitted in whole or in part under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman at the expense of the master of such vessel will not be necessary in order to secure the presence of such alien for examination or for his departure pursuant to any warrant or order of deportation, he may cause such expense to be refunded to such master from time to time out of appropriations available therefor.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily by the master of such vessel or as a member of the crew of another vessel, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain the deportation of such alien by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the master of such vessel or cause a bond to be furnished sufficient to cover the expense of such deportation, and such vessel and master shall not be liable to any further proceedings under this section. (43 Stat. 164–165, 8 U. S. C. 181 (a), 181 (c).)

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be received on board a vessel documented under the laws of the United States before it shall be lawful for any alien to be employed on board such vessel in any capacity whatsoever. The list of aliens so employed on board such vessel shall be kept available for inspection by the immigration officer at the port where such vessel shall first arrive after such employment. Any master who shall employ any alien on board any vessel without complying with the provisions of this section shall pay to the collector of customs for each such alien the sum of $1,000, to be recovered by action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the master shall first arrive after such employment. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel the master of which shall refuse to pay any such sum imposed upon him by this section.

Sec. 20. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof to report in writing to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival the name of each alien employed on board such vessel, and such additional information relative thereto as the Secretary of Labor may by regulation require. Such report shall be made at the time of the entry of such vessel if practicable, but in no case later than twenty-four hours after such entry. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel who shall fail to report concerning any alien employed on board such vessel or who shall report false information in relation thereto shall pay to the collector of customs a penalty of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such report is required and not made, or concerning whom such false information is given: Provided, That clearance may be granted such vessel prior to the determination by the Secretary of Labor of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, but in the event such fine is finally imposed it shall be paid before clearance is granted such vessel subsequently: Provided further, That no fine shall be imposed if it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that it was impossible for the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to obtain such information from the alien and that the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer has reported in writing to the Secretary of Labor the name of such alien and has diligently endeavored to obtain such information and report the same to the Secretary of Labor prior to the departure of such vessel from the last port within the United States: And provided further, That the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel shall not be required to report concerning any alien who was in the employ of the same master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer on the last previous trip of such vessel from a foreign port or place to the United States, if such alien is then holding the same position on such vessel as he held on such previous trip, and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel has reported concerning such alien on such previous trip and stated in writing that such alien was employed on board such vessel on such previous trip.

Sec. 21. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to obtain on board any such vessel before sailing from the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival the names of all aliens concealed on board such vessel, and the intended length of their stay in the United States, or who fails to obtain such information on board any such vessel before departure from the United States, or who fails to report the names of all aliens employed on board such vessel, and such additional information relative thereto, to the immigration officer at the port of arrival

Such reports shall be verified by the oath of the master or commanding officer or the agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel, and shall be prepared on such forms and in such detail as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Any master or commanding officer, or agent, owner, or consignee of any such vessel who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section or any lawful rule or regulation prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each offense in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon application in writing therefor, the Attorney General in his discretion shall refund any fine or penalty paid hereunder, or remit any bond or part thereof, or cancel any such bond, which he may think has been imposed without sufficient reason, or unjustly, or in excess of the amount due under the provisions of this section.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused a landing permit by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman to the immigration officer at the port of departure when required so to do, and the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located shall refuse clearance to the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived until a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, shall be deposited with him. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon such remission or mitigation the Attorney General in his discretion shall refund any money paid to him as a result thereof.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be required to pay more than the cost of deportation by the most direct and speedy route to the country to which such seaman is destined. Such list or manifest shall be prepared on blank forms furnished by the Commissioner General of Immigration, which forms shall be printed in the English language, and shall be filled out with black ink. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse to deliver such list or manifest, or who shall fail to comply with the requirements of this section or any lawful regulations made by the Commissioner General of Immigration with respect thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. For each person concerning whom any inaccuracy is found to exist after the list or manifest has been verified as above provided, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel upon which such person arrives shall be liable to a penalty of $10 unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that such inaccuracy arose from an honest mistake, or with reasonable cause to believe that the person concerned was not subject to the provisions relating to the exclusion or deportation of aliens, in which case a penalty not exceeding $100 may be imposed. The payment, remission, refunding, collection, and recovery of such penalties shall be made in such manner and subject to such conditions, not inconsistent with this section, as shall be directed by the Secretary of Labor. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the district courts of the United States and the district courts of the Territories to enforce the payment of such penalties. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, refund any penalty collected hereunder which is shown to his satisfaction to have been improperly collected, or any part of such penalty in excess of the sum of $100 for each person concerning whom any inaccuracy is found to exist after the list or manifest has been verified as above provided. No vessel shall be granted clearance beyond the determination of the immigration officer at the port of arrival in respect of such alien seaman, or while the case remains pending, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such case, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The section, as amended, shall apply to all penalties arising subsequent to June 2, 1940.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall depart from the United States from any port or place in the United States shall be examined before leaving such port or place to determine whether he has in his possession or has secured any documents required by the immigration laws of the United States, and whether he has complied with the provisions of such laws. Such examination shall be conducted by an immigrant inspector, or, if one is not available at such port or place, by such other officer as the Commissioner of Immigration may designate for the purpose.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from which such vessel departs, or to deport such alien seaman on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expenses may be charged to and collected from the owner of such vessel as a penalty: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of entry a list containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on board the vessel at the port of entry, or place contiguous to such port of entry, and those to be detained in custody or bond, as hereinafter provided, for the purpose of identification or examination, or because they are known or suspected, all cases in which such alien has in his possession, or has procured, any immigration visa, and such other information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, touching the right of such alien to enter the United States. Such list shall be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of entry before any such alien shall be landed from the vessel, except pursuant to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, providing for the landing of aliens employed on vessels touching at ports in foreign contiguous territory. Masters, owners, agents, consignees, or charterers of vessels bringing aliens employed thereon to the United States from foreign contiguous territory shall deliver to the immigration officer at the port of entry lists containing the names of all such aliens so employed, indicating those destined to the United States, and stating the intended length of stay and final destination of each such alien. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 180.)

SEC. 35. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry and the medical examiner (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of entry is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Fines shall be liens against such vessels, and may be collected by suit, and no such vessel shall have clearance granted it while under fine for violation of this section. Such fines may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just, or suits for the recovery of such fines may be compromised or discontinued by the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such detained alien who may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival like counterlists for the manifest of all aliens employed on board such vessel, whether the same be destined to the port of arrival or to some other port in the United States or to a foreign country, when and where they were respectively signed on board such vessel, whether the destination of such aliens be known or declared, and whether they have been or are intended to be landed or not in the port of arrival; or like counterlists as to such aliens in case of the transfer of any such vessel at sea, and such counterlists shall be delivered to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port at which the vessel shall first arrive after such transfer. Such counterlists shall be in the form prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Commerce, and shall contain such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration touching each alien included therein, and such other information as may be required by the Secretary of Commerce, or any officer of customs, touching the right of any such alien to enter the United States. Such counterlists shall be verified by the oath of the master or commanding officer of the vessel, which oath any officer of customs is hereby authorized to administer. Any master or commanding officer who refuses or neglects to deliver such counterlists, or who knowingly delivers a false counterlist, or who refuses to deliver to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival any such alien included therein, or who knowingly lands or permits to land any such alien at any port in the United States, except in case of stress of weather or other unavoidable cause, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and may be arrested before any such alien is landed from the vessel, and held in such sum as may be required by the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival, not exceeding $1,000, for each such alien, pending the final determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty. Such penalty may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Commerce upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem just, or the vessel may be allowed to proceed on the voyage upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to pay the penalties incurred, pending the decision of the Secretary of Commerce upon application therefor made within two years after the payment of the penalty. Upon the production within one year from the date of the payment of the penalty of such evidence as may be required by the Secretary of Commerce, the sum deposited, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be returned to the depositor. The Secretary of Commerce may, in his discretion, refund fines imposed upon masters of vessels under the provisions of this section in cases where it shall appear that the fine was imposed without fault on the part of the master, and that the vessel has in all respects complied with the provisions of this section applicable to masters of vessels. (39 Stat. 885; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside the foreign contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands of the United States, or the Canal Zone any alien who is inadmissible under the provisions of this Act, other than an alien crewman, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and may be arrested before any such alien is landed from such vessel, and held in such sum as may be required by the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival, not exceeding $1,000 for each such alien, pending the final determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty. Such penalty may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem just, or the vessel may be allowed to proceed on the voyage upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to pay the penalties incurred, pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor upon application therefor made within two years after the payment of the penalty. Upon the production within one year from the date of the payment of such penalty of such evidence as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, the sum deposited, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be returned to the depositor. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Secretary of Labor in his discretion shall think proper.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the contiguous territory of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or deposit after reimbursement by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship such vessel may be permitted by the immigration officer or the Attorney General to depart from the United States without the deposit of the penalty, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or all payments guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel shall be fined $300 for each and every alien he shall bring or cause to be brought into the United States from any foreign port or place, or from any port in the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, or Tutuila, and for each and every alien he shall cause to land at any port other than a port designated as the port of entry for such alien by the Commissioner of Immigration, unless such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall prove to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Immigration that he had no reasonable ground to believe that such alien was unlawfully in the United States or not clearly and beyond a reasonable doubt entitled to enter the United States under the terms of this Act, and in the event any such alien is improperly landed in the United States, the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel in which such alien was brought to the United States shall be jointly and severally liable to the Government for the head tax and any expenses in connection with the maintenance, detention, and deportation of such alien, to be recovered by the Attorney General by action in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, That clearance may be granted any vessel prior to the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such head tax or expenses in connection with any alien member of the crew thereof, whenever a sufficient bond is furnished conditioned for the payment of such head tax or expenses in connection with such alien, or whenever the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall deposit sufficient money to cover such head tax or expenses pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such head tax or expenses in connection with such alien, which deposit shall be returned to the depositor in case the alien is found not to be subject to such head tax or expenses, but in the event such alien is adjudged subject to such head tax or expenses, it shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States: Provided further, That clearance may be granted vessels carrying aliens who are not members of the crew without the deposit of money or bond required by this section in connection with such aliens, when, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Immigration, such deposit or bond is unnecessary for the protection of the revenue or the enforcement of the immigration laws, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, and upon the payment of $8 for each alien so cleared: Provided further, That the Commissioner of Immigration may, in his discretion, refund any moneys deposited with him in excess of the head tax and expenses chargeable against any alien. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, other than an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or because of an emergency, or for a period not to exceed twenty-nine days, and not then unless a bond in the penal sum of $300 for each alien seaman, conditioned upon such alien departing on a vessel within such period, is deposited by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and such bond shall not be canceled until the alien has departed from the United States or has been granted permission to land permanently or temporarily. Upon the failure of any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel to deliver any alien seaman entitled to be treated under this section, or upon the failure of any such alien seaman to depart from the United States in accordance with the terms of the bond, there shall be collected from the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel the sum of $10 for each alien seaman not delivered, which sum may be recovered in an action of debt in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located. The Attorney General is authorized to refund the amount of any bond forfeited, or any part thereof, when it appears that the alien seaman has been deported at the expense of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived, or has been otherwise removed from the United States at such expense, or has been granted permission to land permanently or temporarily, or that the circumstances of the case are such that in the opinion of the Attorney General the ends of justice will be served by the refund of the amount of the bond or any part thereof. Any master who shall refuse or neglect to deliver any alien seaman entitled to be treated under this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to report the illness or hospitalization of any such alien seaman, or who shall refuse or neglect to detain any such alien seaman on board his vessel when ordered so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall refuse or neglect to deliver any such alien seaman to the proper immigration officer at the time of the vessel's departure from a port of the United States, or who shall refuse or neglect to pay the cost of maintenance of any such alien seaman, or who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section or with any lawful rule or regulation made by the Secretary of Labor with respect to the boarding and inspection of vessels, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom any such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who shall refuse or neglect to detain any alien seaman on board his vessel after such alien seaman has been ordered so to be detained by the Secretary of Labor, or any master who shall refuse or neglect to report, list, detain, or deliver any alien seaman as required by any rule, regulation, or order made pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this section for which a penalty is not otherwise prescribed, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman concerning whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of any such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, such deposit to be returned in the event remission is granted. Clearance may be withheld in case of refusal to pay any such fine imposed upon the master, except that clearance may be granted upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to pay such fine, such deposit to be returned in the event remission is granted.

(42 Stat. 164, 165; 8 U. S. C. 102.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain such seaman on board any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has granted a landing permit, or who fails to deliver such seaman on board any vessel upon which he is required to be returned, or who fails to pay the cost of maintenance of such seaman while he is required to be detained, or who fails to comply with the provisions of section 13 of this Act with respect to any such seaman, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of any such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, such deposit to be returned in the event remission is granted. Clearance may be withheld in case of refusal to pay any such fine imposed upon the master, except that clearance may be granted upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to pay such fine, such deposit to be returned in the event remission is granted.

(39 Stat. 888; 8 U. S. C. 170.)

SEC. 13(b). Funds of alien employees: When clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master thereof has delivered to the immigrant inspector boarding such vessel a list of all alien employees on board, and has made oath before such inspector that such list contains the name of every alien employee on board and truly states the wages due to each, and that he has deposited with the collector of customs a sum sufficient in his judgment to pay the wages of such employees until the next regular payday, and that he has complied with the provisions of section 36 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 1171), with respect to the payment of wages of alien seamen, or that in the event such sum is insufficient, he will deposit such additional sum as may be required by the collector of customs to pay such wages. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such wages as the collector of customs may estimate, and in the event such sum is insufficient, he will deposit such additional sum as may be required by the collector of customs to pay such wages. Clearance may be withheld in case of refusal to deposit such additional sum when demanded, but no such clearance shall be granted by reason of the deposit of any sum sufficient only to pay wages earned prior to the last departure of the vessel from a foreign port, and in the event any part of the deposit is refunded, the deposit thereof shall be treated as a new deposit.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canadian or Mexican border ports, shall be permitted to land in the United States except for such time as the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival may prescribe, and under such conditions as he may impose, unless upon the certificate of the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival it is found that such alien seaman is not suffering from any contagious disease, and is not a member of any class of aliens excluded from admission to the United States under section 3 of this Act, or unless such alien seaman shall be in possession of a valid immigration visa and otherwise admissible under this Act. Such immigration visa may be granted such alien seaman upon the application in his behalf by the master or agent of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall be responsible for the return to the country from which he came, or to the country to which he belongs, of such alien seaman, and for the payment of any expenses incurred in connection with his maintenance and detention, and for the payment of any fine or penalty which may be imposed upon such alien seaman under the provisions of this section. Such alien seaman may be required to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay such fine or penalty, and the cost of maintenance and detention of such alien seaman for a period not exceeding four weeks, and such deposit may be increased if found insufficient. Such deposit shall be returned to the master or agent of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived upon the certificate of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such alien seaman has been removed from the United States to the country to which he belongs, or that no charge has been made against him within four weeks after the date of his departure, or that sufficient moneys have been withheld from his wages to defray the charges against him. Such deposit shall not be returned to the master or agent of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived if the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall have been notified by the Attorney General that such alien seaman has been ordered deported to a country which refuses to accept him, or that such alien seaman is being detained as a witness in or pending the prosecution of any person charged with a violation of the immigration laws, or that such alien seaman is detained for the purpose of having his testimony preserved for the use of the United States Government, or that such alien seaman has been granted a period of time within which to depart from the United States voluntarily, or that such alien seaman has been granted a stay of deportation by the Attorney General. Such deposit shall be returned to the master or agent of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived upon the certificate of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such alien seaman has been granted a period of time within which to depart from the United States voluntarily, or that such alien seaman has been granted a stay of deportation by the Attorney General, or that such alien seaman has been removed from the United States to the country to which he belongs, or that no charge has been made against him within four weeks after the date of his departure, or that sufficient moneys have been withheld from his wages to defray the charges against him. Such deposit shall be returned to the master or agent of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived if such alien seaman shall have been issued a permit as provided in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 875; 8 U. S. C. 136), and such deposit shall be returned to the master or agent of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived if such alien seaman shall have been issued a visa as a nonimmigrant under section 101 (a) (15) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (66 Stat. 168; 8 U. S. C. 1101 (a) (15)).

No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the application of any fine or penalty incurred under the provisions of this section, and the payment of any fine imposed hereunder may be enforced by the withholding of clearance papers.

Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses or fails to furnish such information with respect to any such alien, or who refuses any such alien an opportunity to be so included, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the application of any fine or penalty incurred under the provisions of this section, and the payment of any fine imposed hereunder may be enforced by the withholding of clearance papers.

(43 Stat. 162; 8 U. S. C. 139.)

SEC. 40. (a) Any master, purser, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien who is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disorders named in section 3 of this Act, or any person in charge of the port of arrival in lieu of the medical officer thereof, or any person in charge of the immigrant station at such port, shall report the name and nationality of such alien, the fact and probable cause of such affliction or defect or disorder, and the length of time such alien has been on board such vessel, to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and shall detain such alien on board such vessel or at such port of arrival in such manner and subject to such conditions as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may prescribe, until a determination is made by the immigration officer in charge at such port of arrival as to whether such alien belongs to one of the classes excluded from admission to the United States by section 3 of this Act, or until such alien is certified to a medical officer for examination. Such master, purser, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who fails to report and detain any such alien as herein provided shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien with respect to whom such failure occurs.

(b) Any such alien certified to a medical officer for examination shall be examined by such medical officer, and unless found to belong to one of the classes excluded from admission to the United States by section 3 of this Act shall be certified by such medical officer to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, with a statement in writing setting forth the findings of such medical officer. The decision of the medical officer as to the right of any alien to land shall be final and conclusive, unless reversed on review by the Secretary of Labor upon appeal taken by such alien within the time hereinafter limited. Such review may be had upon the initiative of the Secretary of Labor within forty-eight hours after the decision of the medical officer, or upon the application of such alien, his agent, attorney, or relative filed within forty-eight hours after the decision of the medical officer. Pending the review of the decision of the medical officer, the alien shall be detained in the custody of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival. The Secretary of Labor shall cause such alien to be examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, who shall certify his findings in writing to the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor shall give notice to such alien and his agent, attorney, or relative, if known, of the time and place assigned for the review of the case by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and shall hear such alien, his agent, attorney, or relative, if present, before rendering his decision. The decision of the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service shall be subject to reversal only by the concurring opinion of two members of the Board of Medical Officers of the United States Public Health Service, to be designated by the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service. The decision of the Secretary of Labor shall be final as to the rights of all aliens to land or enter the United States, except that it shall be subject to review by the action of the proper court in habeas corpus proceedings instituted by or on behalf of any alien whose right to land or enter the United States has been denied by the Secretary of Labor. Pending the final determination of the case, the custody of the alien shall not be disturbed.

(c) Any alien certified by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disorders named in section 3 of this Act shall be deported in pursuance of the law, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be satisfied that such alien may be admitted without detriment to the welfare of the United States, and shall report his decision in each case to the Congress with the reasons therefor.

(43 Stat. 163; 8 U. S. C. 140.)

SEC. 41. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at a port in the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or hospitalization of such alien seaman as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 140.)

SEC. 42. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or hospitalization of such seaman as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such seaman from the United States, any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to any alien to detain such seaman on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel after inspection or to deport such seaman if rejected by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so. Appeal may be taken to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located from the action of such immigration officer within the time and in the manner provided in section 40 hereof in the case of aliens afflicted with certain disease or mental or physical defect or disorder. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the application of the penalty to be borne by the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof, or the payment thereof, except as provided by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such bond as to any alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the discharge of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be sent back thereto by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain a certificate by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(43 Stat. 164-165; 8 U. S. C. 141 (a), (b), (c).)

When an alternate seaman is a "noncrewman," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, include names of returning American citizen seamen as well as aliens.

(a) That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all alien members of the crew employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on board and discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing the names of such alien members of the crew as the aforesaid officer may require, in writing, as soon as practicable, all cases in which any such alien has been permitted to land temporarily under bond, and the amount of such bond, together with any information likely to lead to his identification; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such master, agent, consignee, or owner, or masters to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien members who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who may thereafter have been found on board, and in case of the failure of such master, agent, consignee, or owner to deliver either of the lists herein required, he shall pay a penalty of $10 for each alien member concerning whom such default occurs: Provided, That the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel may be relieved from the payment of the penalty for the failure to report any alien member who has been taken from such vessel and detained by the United States immigration officials, or who has died, or who has been left behind in foreign territory, or who has been discharged in accordance with the immigration laws, upon producing such alien, or a certificate from the proper United States consular officer that such alien has been detained by him, or a certificate of death, or other satisfactory evidence of the death of such alien, or a certificate from the master of the vessel on which such alien was discharged, or other satisfactory evidence of such discharge, and the cause thereof. Such lists shall be produced and delivered before the vessel shall be granted entry, and in the event such list is improperly, incorrectly, or incompletely made out, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall be subject to the penalty of $10 for each such omission, unless it appears to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that there was no intention to conceal the presence of any such alien, and that the omission was not for the purpose of evading the immigration laws of the United States. Such penalty shall be paid to the collector of customs, or if no collector resides at the port of arrival, then to the collector of customs nearest the port of arrival, and no vessel shall be granted clearance papers while any penalty imposed by this section remains unpaid, or while the master, agent, consignee, or owner is under prosecution for a violation of this section, and the payment of any penalty imposed hereunder may be enforced by the withholding of clearance papers.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival by vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of entry a complete list of the persons on board such vessel, arranged in the manner and containing the information required by the application blanks of the United States Immigrant Inspection Service, which shall be prepared by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel at the port of departure or at the last port at which such vessel touched before sailing for the United States, and shall be subscribed and sworn to by the master before the consular officer of the United States at the port of departure, or if there be no consular officer at such port, then before the consular officer of the United States at the port most convenient of access to the master. Such list shall show the full name, nationality, last residence, calling or occupation, and intended place of permanent residence in the United States of every alien on board, whether he be a cabin passenger or a steerage passenger or a member of the crew, and whether he is in possession of a valid immigrant visa or not, and such additional information relative thereto as may be required by the Secretary of Labor; and such list shall be sworn to before the consular officer by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel with respect to each and every alien listed. Such list shall be produced by the master at the time of the vessel's arrival at the first port in the United States at which inspection is made, and a duplicate list, verified by the oath of the master before the officer in charge of the immigration service at the port of arrival, shall be delivered by the master to such officer at the time of inspection of the vessel or, if not then demanded, shall be delivered by the master to such officer at the immigration station to which such alien is destined for examination in special inquiry, or to the commissioner in charge of the station or district. Such list shall be corrected, additions being made at the footings, to show the changes and additions to the list of aliens reported at the time of sailing and the reasons for the non-arrival of any alien so reported. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses or fails to deliver such list, or who refuses or fails to make oath to the same or to any part thereof, or who refuses or fails to deliver such additional information in writing as may be demanded by the immigrant inspector at the time of inspection of his vessel, or who refuses or fails to detain any alien on board his vessel when ordered by the immigrant inspector in charge, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same if he is satisfied that the vessel was not at fault and that reasonable diligence has been exercised by the master and owner to prevent the violation of the provisions of this section. This section, as amended, shall apply to all immigration arrivals subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(d) Front shall an alien seaman who did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be new entered by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain to depart with such vessel's manifest by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and the burden of proof shall be upon such seaman to establish compliance with the provisions of this section.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such deportation shall not be effected unless such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(b) The master of any vessel bringing aliens to the United States shall, before such vessel departs from any port outside the United States, cause a list to be prepared containing the name, age, sex, calling, nationality, last permanent residence, and final destination of each alien who is destined to the United States, and the name of the vessel on which he arrived. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, include names of arriving American citizen seamen as well as aliens.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That alien arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, whether the functions they respectively hold in the strict sense connote the name or all or any of them, to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a list or manifest of all aliens who may be on board such vessel, whether such aliens be cabin passengers, steerage passengers, or members of the crew, and whether they intend to land or not, and to furnish such other information in regard to them as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or the boards of special inquiry hereinafter provided for. Such list or manifest shall be prepared at such time before the vessel's departure from a foreign port or place as the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or the boards of special inquiry may prescribe, and shall be delivered at such time before the vessel's arrival at the port of destination as the principal immigration officer at the port may direct. The master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing any alien who is not in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa and passport, or who is not a citizen of the United States, shall deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a separate list containing the names of all such aliens. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who refuses or neglects to deliver such list or manifest, or any master who refuses to allow an immigrant inspector to go on board his vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same, or any master, agent, consignee, or owner who refuses or neglects to detain any alien on board his vessel when ordered so to do by the principal immigration officer at the port, or who refuses or neglects to deliver to the proper officer at the time of the departure of such vessel from a foreign port any such alien as may be specified in such list or manifest, or who refuses or neglects to report and deliver to the proper officer any such alien who may have been concealed on board such vessel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien in respect to whom such default occurs, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Before any vessel shall be granted clearance the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof shall deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient to pay the head tax imposed by section 2 of this Act for each alien who may have been specified in the list or manifest of such vessel, and not returned thereon, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance by the collector of customs or other officer authorized to grant clearance in case of her failure to deposit such sum, but such vessel may be granted clearance upon depositing with such collector of customs a sum sufficient to pay the head tax of such aliens as may be specified in such list or manifest, and not returned thereon, whenever the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall have obtained from the Secretary of Labor a certificate that such aliens have been duly accounted for. Such certificate shall be issued by the Secretary of Labor upon the production by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel of the certificate of the boards of special inquiry that such aliens have been duly accounted for, or upon the production of such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor that such aliens have been accounted for. Such head tax shall be refunded to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel if such alien be found by the boards of special inquiry not to be subject to such head tax, or if such alien be permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, or if such alien be taken back to the foreign port from which such vessel came by the master of such vessel when ordered by the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or if such alien be taken back to a foreign port by the master of another vessel of the same line, or if such alien shall have been allowed to land upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, or if such alien shall have been specially excepted from the payment of such head tax by the Secretary of Labor. The Attorney General may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of this section, and may employ such additional inspectors as may be necessary to secure the prompt and efficient performance of the duties of the immigration service at the various ports of arrival.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel cannot be granted clearance until such expenses have been paid to its payment satisfactory to the Attorney General.

I, Ellis R. Endperly, of the Canada-New London Ferry Co., do declare that the foregoing is a full and true list of all the crew brought in said vessel from and port or place during the two months preceding the date hereof, and I further declare that I have read the provisions of section 30 of the Act of February 5, 1917, entitled "An Act to regulate the immigration of aliens to, and the residence of aliens in, the United States," approved May 26, 1924, and I have noted the copy of section 31 and 32, Act of May 26, 1924, which appear below.

Ellis R Endperly

Sworn to before me this 10 day of November, 1931

Chas. H. Martin
Immigrant Inspector.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of aliens embarked at other ports of entry (Form I-418) shall not be required on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alternate manifest "Form A" is used it shall be delivered by the master to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival. In order to facilitate inspection, aliens embarked on each vessel are required to be listed in the order in which they appear on the ship's roster, and the list must be delivered to the immigrant inspector boarding the vessel as the first duty after the vessel is docked at the port of arrival; or if this conditions is not complied with, the master will be liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien not listed. Failure to furnish information required by this list concerning any alien will be considered a violation of law and the master will be liable to the penalty prescribed by section 8 of the Act of February 5, 1917.

If any owner, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel shall refuse or fail to deliver the lists required by this section, or shall refuse or fail to answer questions or furnish information as required by the immigration officers or the Secretary of Labor, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port is located a penalty of $300 for each and every such refusal or failure, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same upon such terms as he may deem just. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same upon such terms as he may deem just. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the Attorney General in the direction shall exist there. $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, when such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall exist there. This section, as amended, shall apply to all vessels arriving subsequent to June 5, 1940.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from this place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that adequate provision and arrangements have been made for the detention of any seaman who may be required as a witness in connection with any prosecution, he may, in his discretion, authorize the removal from the United States of such seaman at any time after his arrival and before the completion of his service on board the vessel on which he arrived, upon the deposit of such sum and upon such conditions as may be required by the Attorney General to insure the return of such seaman for hearing and departure with the vessel. Upon the refusal or failure of the master to deposit such sum or to comply with such conditions, the seaman may be removed from the United States and the cost of his maintenance while detained, and of his return, may be collected from the master in the same manner as provided for the collection of head taxes. Such cost, when collected, shall be deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the appropriation from which payment was originally made for the maintenance of such seaman. (43 Stat. 161–162, 53 Stat. 818; 8 U. S. C. 161 (d), (e).)

Such period of time may be extended by the Attorney General for such additional periods of time as he may deem warranted by the circumstances of each case.

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, how and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on board for discharge in the port of arrival; to state separately the names of all aliens, if any, in transit to other ports of the United States; and to furnish such other information in regard to said aliens as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and failure to furnish such information when demanded shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 for each offense; and in addition to such penalty such vessel may be refused clearing papers by the collector of customs. All cases in which any such alien may allegedly have become ill shall be reported to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival as soon as discovered, and such alien shall be detained on board or at quarantine station as directed by the Secretary of Labor. It shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel to deliver to such immigration officer a true list of all aliens employed on board such vessel before departure from any foreign port or place, and a like list of all aliens employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who join the vessel subsequent to departure from such foreign port or place, and also the names of those who have been signed on and discharged, and of those who have died or escaped from such vessel, with the circumstances relating thereto, if any, and pay the prescribed tax for each alien employed thereon, or in case of the failure to deliver such lists, or any of them, or to pay such tax, the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall be severally liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered, or a true report is not made as above required: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such tax.

SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contract, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention in the United States for the protection of the public health, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the substitute deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside foreign ports shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment or because of illness requiring his detention in the United States for the protection of the public health, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who shall be found to be an alien seaman on board after such inspection or to whom such landing shall be granted by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor or by such officials as he may designate to act in his behalf, and who deposits with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect to whom such landing occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of such deposit or the payment of the taxes and penalties incurred by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside foreign, or that he was temporarily by the master or such vessel as a member thereof, shall be prima facie evidence to a landing tax of $500 and a penalty of $1,000 against the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, but such penalty shall not apply in the case of a seaman who shall have been forced to land by reason of illness, injury, or shipwreck.

The list or manifest of aliens must be prepared in duplicate, and "NONE" must be entered across the face of the manifest if no aliens are carried. The list or manifest of aliens must be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival before any passengers are landed, and will be required in connection therewith to show the name of every alien on board, whether destined to the United States or not, and such information as may be required by the Immigration officer as to the right of any alien to enter the United States. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who refuses to deliver such list or manifest, or who refuses to answer truthfully any question propounded to him by the immigration officer in connection therewith, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(h) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or that any alien seaman was landed from any vessel arriving in the United States without the permission of the immigration officer in charge of the port, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien on board the vessel for departure, and to report, list, and detain him.

(i) If the Attorney General finds that a violation of subdivision (h) of this section has been caused by the willful neglect or by the fault of the master, purser, or other officer of the vessel, or of the owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof, he may refuse or revoke the clearance of the vessel from any port of the United States while the master, purser, or other officer of the vessel remains in command or service thereon.

(j) Any alien seaman who shall land from any vessel at any port in the United States and fail to remain with the vessel until she departs from such port, unless specifically permitted by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to land temporarily, shall be deemed to be a deserter, and shall be taken into custody upon the vessel by any immigration officer or any person authorized by him in writing so to do, and delivered to the master or agent of the vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while detained on shore shall be collected from the master or agent of the vessel before her departure, or from the owner of the vessel in case she departs without the alien seaman. Any alien seaman who deserts while the vessel is in port may be arrested without warrant and taken on board the vessel or other vessel or vessels of the same line upon which he arrived, or to the vessel to which he was transferred, or to any vessel which relieves her in port, or to the vessel to which he may be transferred while in port, or to any vessel which takes off the master, purser, or other officer with whom he was employed when he deserted. Any alien seaman who deserts from any vessel in the United States may be arrested without warrant and taken on board any vessel specified in the warrant which is about to depart from the port, and the master of such vessel shall receive and detain such alien seaman in custody until the vessel has left the port. Any alien seaman who deserts from any vessel in the United States may be arrested without warrant and detained in custody until the vessel on board which he arrived, or to which he was transferred, or which relieved the vessel on board which he arrived, or to which he may be transferred while in port, is ready to depart from the port, or until the master or agent of such vessel shall deposit with the Secretary of Labor such sum, not exceeding $300, as the Secretary of Labor may require, to cover the cost of returning such alien seaman to the country to which the master or agent of the vessel on board which he arrived agrees to return him, or until the master or agent of such vessel shall furnish a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien seaman who deserts from any vessel in the United States may be arrested without warrant and taken on board any vessel specified in the warrant which is about to depart from the port, and the master of such vessel shall receive and detain such alien seaman in custody until the vessel has left the port

SEC. 19. No alien seaman entering United States from the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless to such investigation as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory or adjacent islands, other than Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Panama, the Canal Zone, the islands adjacent thereto, and islands belonging to the United States, who shall refuse to allow any immigration officer to enter any part of such vessel for the purpose of inspecting the crew thereof, or who shall refuse to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection it all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who shall refuse to detain on board any alien seaman ordered deported until such inspection or to deport such seaman if ordered by such immigration officer or the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in the exercise shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportation aliens unpaid prior to June 2, 1940.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place outside contiguous territory, or that he was deported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or deport alien seaman by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be finally imposed upon such vessel if it establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such expense has been paid or finally deposited to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the extent necessary for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention in the United States for observation or treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the eligible examination of such alien seamen (which inspection shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to such alien seamen as may be specifically certified by the Secretary of Labor in order to prevent the separation of families, or to such alien seamen as may be necessary to the operation of the vessel on which they arrived, during its stay in port, or to such alien seamen as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the Attorney General as destitute or likely to become a public charge, or to such alien seamen as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the Attorney General as having been treated for any contagious disease, or to such alien seamen as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the Attorney General as having been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, except that clearance may be granted to any such seaman on the vessel on which he arrived during its stay in port if such seaman shall not be detained elsewhere than on board such vessel or at the expense of the vessel or master pending departure, and such seaman shall depart on the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel leaving the port at the same time or prior thereto. Any alien seaman who shall remain in the United States longer than the period for which he was granted clearance shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof, unless such additional time be granted him by the Secretary of Labor upon the certification of the Attorney General that such alien seaman has been unable to depart from the United States within the period for which he was granted clearance because of reasons beyond his control and that such period of additional time is necessary for the purpose of this section. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States within the period for which he was granted clearance, or within such additional time as may be granted him by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof, and shall be ineligible to become a citizen of the United States. Clearance may be granted to any such seaman notwithstanding the provisions of section 3 hereof.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be satisfied that any alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived during its stay in port has violated any condition upon which clearance was granted him, or has remained in the United States for a longer period than specified by the Secretary of Labor, or has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, committed after entry, or has become a public charge from causes arising subsequent to his entry, he may cause such alien seaman to be taken into custody and returned to the vessel on which he arrived or to any vessel on which he could be lawfully deported, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such alien seaman has been returned to the vessel on which he arrived or to some other vessel leaving the port at the same time or prior thereto. The cost of maintaining such alien seaman while in custody and returning him to the vessel shall be borne by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who refuses to receive back on board thereof any alien seaman specified in this section, or who refuses to pay the cost of maintaining such alien seaman while in custody and returning him to the vessel, shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all seamen arriving subsequent to June 3, 1940.

(d) Every alien on an alien seaman's bill not appearing upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or who may be reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or obey such alien's landing permit by the immigration officer at the Attorney General.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival liars containing the names of all persons employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the alien's country, where and where they were respectively equipped to engage, and specifying those to be held on board at the port of arrival; to liars containing as many of such details as may be required by the Secretary of Labor in relation to any alien, foreigner, or other information likely to lead to his apprehension; and to all the foregoing questions, and such other questions relative to any such person as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, true answers shall be made by the master or person in charge of the vessel, or his agent, before the departure of any such person from the United States. Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses or neglects to deliver such liars, or who refuses to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases of illegally landed aliens, or who refuses to answer truthfully to such immigration officer all questions in relation to such aliens, forfeits one fifty dollars for each such alien; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers until such penalty has been paid or such alien or aliens lawfully landed or shipped. Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses to deliver to any such person before the departure of such vessel from a foreign port or place the certificate prescribed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, or who refuses to deliver to any such person before the departure of such vessel from the United States the certificate prescribed by section 3 of the Act of February 5, 1917, shall pay a penalty of $200 for each such certificate not delivered. The Secretary of Labor may remit any fine or penalty provided for in this section when it is shown to his satisfaction that the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel was not culpably negligent and had no intent to evade the law. (8 U. S. C. 136.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. (a) No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to secure treatment in a hospital, or pending such time as the vessel in which he arrived is ready to depart or another vessel is available to take him to a foreign port, or pending the adjustment of his case if he shall have been certified by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized representative to be a bona fide seaman seeking to enter the United States temporarily and solely in pursuance of his calling as a seaman, and solely for the purpose of performing duty as a seaman aboard a vessel arriving at a port of the United States, and intending to depart from the United States within such period of time as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized representative in the case of each such seaman, and to secure such documentation as may be required by the immigration laws and regulations of the country to which he intends to depart after leaving the United States, or to establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized representative that he is unable to secure such documentation because no such documentation is required by the country of which he is a subject or citizen, and that he intends to depart from the United States upon the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within a period of time specified by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized representative, and to pay the cost of his maintenance while he remains in the United States and of his passage to the country to which he belongs or to the country from which he came to the United States, and to present a passport visaed by the consular officer of the country to which he intends to depart, if such country requires passports and visas, and to comply with such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor to assure the departure of such seaman from the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than foreign-built vessels touching only at ports in Canada, Newfoundland, the Canal Zone, the West Indies, Mexico, Central or South America, or adjacent islands) any alien seaman (which term includes a person employed in any capacity on board a vessel) who is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be ground for exclusion of aliens under section 3 of this Act, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, or while such penalty remains unpaid, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance in any case in which such penalty is in excess of the boarding fee provided for by the collector of customs, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or the amount of the boarding fee. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such penalty or any part thereof if he is satisfied that the vessel has sailed from the last port at which she touched before arrival at a port of the United States, and that it was impracticable to detain the vessel or that the vessel could not be detained at such port except at unreasonable hardship to the owners, charterers, agent, consignee, master, or crew of the vessel, or that the vessel has sailed from a foreign contiguous territory and that the violation occurred while the vessel was in the territorial waters of such country, or that the vessel was in distress and was forced into port, or that the vessel arrived from a foreign port and that the violation occurred through no fault or negligence on the part of the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel, and that the vessel has sailed from the port of arrival. Any such remission may be granted upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, including the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety in such amount as he may require, not exceeding $1,000 for each violation, conditioned upon the departure of the vessel from the United States without the subsequent landing therefrom of any alien seaman who has been refused a landing permit by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized representative. Any such bond may be prosecuted and collected by the United States Attorney for the district in which the port of arrival is located, in the name of the United States, for the use of the Secretary of Labor, for the payment of any such penalty. Any such bond may be remitted by the Secretary of Labor, or his duly authorized representative, in whole or in part, upon the payment of a sum sufficient to cover any such penalty or any part thereof which he may remit, or upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or any part thereof which he may remit, with the collector of customs. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such penalty or any part thereof if he is satisfied that the vessel has sailed from the last port at which she touched before arrival at a port of the United States, and that it was impracticable to detain the vessel or that the vessel could not be detained at such port except at unreasonable hardship to the owners, charterers, agent, consignee, master, or crew of the vessel, or that the vessel has sailed from a foreign contiguous territory and that the violation occurred while the vessel was in the territorial waters of such country, or that the vessel was in distress and was forced into port, or that the vessel arrived from a foreign port and that the violation occurred through no fault or negligence on the part of the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel, and that the vessel has sailed from the port of arrival. Where it is impracticable to make the entries on the list by typewriting, they may be made by hand, but shall be legibly written in ink. Where a manifest is required by immigration officers at more than one port, a separate list or manifest shall be prepared for each such port. When an alien is destined to a port other than the port of arrival, the agent, master, owner, or consignee of the vessel shall be responsible for the entry on the list of such alien and the collection from such alien of the head tax required by section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874; U. S. C., title 8, sec. 132), and for the payment of such tax to the collector of customs at the port of arrival. The master will be required to report at the immigration office at the port of arrival the names of all aliens who have been taken on board during the call at foreign ports or ports in the United States, and the failure to report and list any such alien may result in the imposition of the penalty prescribed by section 8 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 878; U. S. C., title 8, sec. 141). Any alien who may be refused admission to the United States may be returned on the vessel which brought him to the port of arrival, and the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel may be required to receive such alien on board and to return him to the country whence he came. Such alien must be detained on board or at the expense of the vessel until such return can be accomplished unless the immigration officer in charge at the port shall grant permission to land the alien temporarily upon the giving of a bond in such amount as may be required. Any alien who lands in the United States without inspection, or who has been refused admission and has been returned to the vessel on which he arrived, or to another vessel, may be required to be detained on board or at the expense of the vessel pending examination by a special inquiry officer. Such detention may be required at any time during the period between the arrival of the vessel at a port and the departure therefrom for foreign parts. Any alien who has been ordered excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, and who is required by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to be detained on board the vessel pending the completion of the physical and mental examination of such alien, shall be detained on board unless he is permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 136.)

SEC. 36. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel in the United States from any place outside thereof, bringing an alien who has been refused admission to the United States at the port of arrival, shall be responsible for the proper return of such alien to the place from which he came to the United States, and for the payment of all expenses incident to his maintenance while in the United States and to his return, including the head tax and the cost of his maintenance while in transit, unless such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he had no reasonable ground to believe that such alien was not lawfully entitled to enter the United States. Pending the determination of the question whether any such alien is to be allowed to land, the vessel shall be required to provide adequate detention facilities satisfactory to the immigration officer in charge at the port, and the cost of maintaining such alien while on shore shall be borne by the owner of the vessel. Such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall also be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien brought, and the vessel shall be liable for such penalty and may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States at any port into which it may come or be found. The Attorney General may, under such regulations as he may prescribe, waive the provisions of this section in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, unless he has reason to believe that such alien is inadmissible to the United States under section 3 of this Act.

(b) Every alien in the United States shall be given a certificate of registry by the Secretary of Labor, if he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he is entitled to such certificate under the provisions of this section, and that he entered the United States prior to June 3, 1921, and has resided therein continuously since such entry, and is not ineligible to citizenship, and is a person of good moral character, and is not subject to deportation under section 19 of this Act. The Secretary of Labor shall cause to be issued to each such alien a certificate of registry under his hand and seal, which shall show the name, age, and such description of the alien as may be required. Such certificate of registry shall be issued only in such form and manner and after such investigation as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe by regulations. Upon the granting of such certificate of registry the Secretary of Labor shall cause a record thereof to be made and preserved in his office, and such record shall be evidence of the facts therein stated in the case of the loss or destruction of the certificate issued thereon or of any duplicate thereof. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require any alien who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, and who has resided therein continuously since such entry, and who is not ineligible to citizenship, and is a person of good moral character, and is not subject to deportation under section 19 of this Act, to leave the United States in order to obtain a certificate of registry under this section. (43 Stat. 161–162, as amended, 44 Stat. 812; 8 U. S. C. 136 (a), (b), 137 (a).)

(c) If the Attorney General shall not have received a certificate of registry for any alien entitled thereto, he may issue a certificate of registry, which shall have the same force and effect as a certificate of registry issued by the Secretary of Labor.

(d) Every alien in the United States who shall not have been lawfully admitted for permanent residence or who shall not have been granted a certificate of registry under the provisions of this section, shall be deported as provided in this Act.

(e) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to repeal, amend, or modify section 4 of the Act of March 2, 1929 (45 Stat. 1512; U. S. C., Supp. VII, title 8, sec. 144a), relating to the registry of aliens.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, except Canadian, Mexican, or Panamanian, or Canadian or Mexican employed on such vessel plying between the United States and Canada or Mexico, or between the United States and the West Indies, Central America, the Canal Zone, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, or Dutch or French Guiana, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, and, if ordered deported to the country from which he came, or to the country in which he resided prior to coming to the country from which he came, shall be deported in the same manner as provided in the case of other aliens ordered deported. Any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman in violation of this section shall be required to remove such alien seaman from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada or Mexico, or from the Canal Zone, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, or Dutch or French Guiana, with any alien seaman employed on board on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been furnished such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has caused such seaman to be detained on board after such inspection or to depart such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the medical examiner, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therein, remit such fine, in whole or in part, to the extent that he may deem just and reasonable, if he shall be satisfied that such failure occurred by reason of sickness or accident, and that proper diligence was exercised by the master and owner of such vessel in the premises, and that such vessel was not intentionally detained.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the conditions imposed by the immigration officer at the port of arrival shall be deported as provided in the case of other aliens.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship, such alien may be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. Any alien seaman who shall land in violation of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 153). Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall violate any provision of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 15. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall not allow any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has failed to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question nor the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Fact that an alien seaman did not appear upon the onboard manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from such foreign port or place shall not be ground for refusing clearance until such seaman has been held at the expense of the vessel at the expense of the master or owner for such time as may be necessary to ascertain whether such seaman is a deserter, shall be given such evidence of a similar nature as may be available, and shall be granted clearance unless the immigration officer or the Attorney General to detain or deport alien readmitted by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a failure to deliver any alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived was occasioned by the removal of such alien seaman by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by reason of the refusal of such alien seaman to proceed on such vessel, or by reason of the desertion of such alien seaman from such vessel without the consent of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, and that such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer has complied with the requirements of the law governing the shipping and signing of seamen so employed by such vessel with respect to such alien seaman, and has been unable to secure the return of such alien seaman, no penalty shall be imposed upon such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel by reason of such failure to deliver or deport such alien seaman. to depart or depart after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to depart or depart after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the authorities thereof, or that he was refused a visa by the consul of the country to which he belongs, or that he could not obtain passage to such country within a reasonable time after the date of his departure from the United States, or that he could not obtain passage to such country without payment of an unreasonable charge or expense, or that he has failed to make timely application in good faith for such passage or for a document required for such passage, or that he has refused to accept such passage or to make such application, or that he has taken any action or has refused to take any action calculated or likely to prevent him from departing on the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has been employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, or has been granted shore leave, unless specifically certified to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that the inspection and examination of such seaman has been completed and that he has been found not to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities for the exclusion of which aliens are excluded from admission into the United States. Such certification shall be made by the medical officer who performed the inspection and examination, or by the commissioner of health of the port, or by the medical officer in charge of the United States immigration station at the port. Such certification shall be based upon a personal physical examination of each seaman by the medical officer making the certification, and no certification shall be made by any such officer unless he has been detailed for the purpose by the Commissioner General of Immigration. Any such certification may be withdrawn at any time by any medical officer of the United States Public Health Service who has reason to believe that the person in respect of whom it was made is afflicted with any of such diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities, and upon such withdrawal the certificate shall be void and of no effect. Any such certification may be withdrawn at any time by any medical officer of the United States Public Health Service who has reason to believe that the person in respect of whom it was made is afflicted with any of such diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities, and upon such withdrawal the certificate shall be void and of no effect.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or for treatment to such extent as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States in addition to the cost of maintenance while in the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States from such vessel any alien seaman employed on board thereof who is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities for the exclusion of which aliens are excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but who has been granted shore leave by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located, and the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman on board such vessel after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer to the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. This section, as amended, shall apply to all penalties arising independent to June 5, 1940.

(b) That after an alien seaman did not appear upon the contiguous territory of the country in which he arrived from any place outside thereof, or after he was reported by the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to determine whether such alien seaman should be permitted to land in the United States, or after he was granted shore leave by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, and prior to the departure of the vessel from the United States, such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States except in pursuance of a permit issued by the Secretary of Labor, under such conditions as he may prescribe, authorizing the master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs to permit such alien seaman to land temporarily for such period of time and under such conditions as may be specified in such permit.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would endanger the welfare of the United States because of unsettled conditions, or because of the unavailability of means of transportation, or other reasons, he may grant a further period or periods of time within which such alien seamen may be deported, but the cost of maintenance while in the United States of such alien seamen during such further period or periods of time shall be paid by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs of the vessel on which such alien seamen arrived in the United States.

(d) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of the provisions of this section, as amended, shall be taken into custody and deported in the manner provided by section 19 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 155). Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs has complied with the requirements of this section, as amended, and has been granted a certificate of clearance by the Secretary of Labor, or by such officer as he may designate for the purpose, to the effect that he has complied with the provisions of this section, as amended, and that he

(43 Stat. 164–165, 8 U. S. C. 181 (a), 181 (c).)

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival like duplicate manifests and lists of all the persons on board such vessel, whether the destination thereof be the port at which they were originally booked or not, and whether they were transported in the immediate employ of the owner or agent of such vessel or not, and whether they are citizens of the United States or not, and whether they are in transit through the United States from one foreign country to another or not, and whether they are destined to the United States or not, and whether they are cabin passengers or not, and whether they are in the employ of the master, agent, owner, or consignee of such vessel or not, and whether they are provided with through transportation to their destination or not, and whether they are in possession of sufficient money to pay their way to their destination or not, and whether they have been in the United States before or not, and whether they have been in foreign countries, including the nationality, race, and last occupation, residence, and intended destination of each such person, and such other information as may be required by the Attorney General. The list or manifest shall be verified by the oath of the master or commanding officer or the first or second officer thereof, and shall be delivered to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and before any of the persons on board such vessel shall be allowed to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical examination, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. Such regulations shall require the master, agent, owner, or consignee of such vessel to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a list containing the name of each alien employed on such vessel and the amount of wages due to each such alien, and to make oath to the correctness of such list. Such regulations shall require the master of every such vessel to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a list containing the name of each alien who shall have been refused a landing at a previous port, and the cause of such refusal, and the final disposition of the case of each such alien. Such regulations shall require the master of every such vessel to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a list containing the name of each alien who has been ordered deported from the United States, and the cause for such deportation, and such other information as may be required by the Attorney General.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alternate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 38. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel upon the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection it shall cause shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to depart such seaman on board such vessel upon such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall deem just.

(b) Upon such arrival of any alien seaman who did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or who was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after reimbursement by the immigration officer to the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds after deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States that such vessel was navigated in violation of the immigration laws of the United States, the master, agent, owner, or consignee of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman deported, unless such master, agent, owner, or consignee shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such alien seaman had remained in the United States with the consent of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and that all reasonable efforts were made to secure the deportation of such alien seaman. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel while any penalty imposed by this section remains unpaid, but clearance may be granted upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover the amount of such penalty. The Attorney General may remit any penalty or portion thereof imposed by this section when it shall appear that the vessel has been lost on the high seas while in the service of bringing the alien seaman to the United States or while returning him pursuant to the provisions of this Act, or that the vessel has been sunk by the act of the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof, or that the vessel has been captured by the enemy during the period of any war in which the United States is engaged, or that the vessel has been seized by the United States, or that the vessel has been lost on a voyage immediately following the unloading of the alien seaman at a port in

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, unless, at the time of his application to such immigration officer for admission as an alien seaman, he is in possession of a valid seaman's passport issued by the Government of the country to which such vessel belongs, or by the Government of the country in which he resides, which shall contain a description of the bearer, and a photograph of sufficient size to be readily identified, and which shall be visaed by a consular officer of the United States at the port or place in such country from which such vessel is to depart, or at the port or place in such country at which such seaman shall first arrive, or by such other officer as may be designated by the Secretary of State, and, if he is found admissible under the immigration laws, shall be admitted for such period of time, not exceeding twenty-nine days, as may be necessary for the vessel on board which he arrived to complete her discharge and reload her cargo and prepare for sea, unless sooner removed, and shall be issued a landing card showing such admission, which shall be surrendered when he departs from the United States. Such seaman may be granted subsequent permits to visit the United States from time to time, upon the same conditions, during the period for which his passport is valid. Any seaman who fails to depart from the United States on the vessel on board which he arrived, or on some other vessel, within the period of time for which he was admitted, or who violates any of the conditions of his admission, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens. Any master who knowingly violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such violation occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application of the master of the vessel, cancel any landing card previously granted to any alien seaman who has been employed on board such vessel, and such alien seaman shall thereupon become subject to all the provisions of this section relating to aliens seeking admission to the United States for the first time. The Attorney General may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, and may refuse the benefits of this section with respect to the seamen of any nation which refuses similar benefits to seamen of the United States.

(a) Any person who knowingly violates any of the provisions of this section, or any rule or regulation made pursuant thereto, or who knowingly makes any false statement in connection with the application for any such landing card, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens convicted of violating the provisions of section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall cause or permit any alien seaman (except an alien seaman employed on board a vessel that has been admitted to the privilege of a coastwise trade under section 34 of the merchant marine act, 1920, as amended by section 27 of the merchant marine act, 1928) to land in the United States from such vessel at any port or place thereof, unless and until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such alien seaman or has determined that such inspection is unnecessary, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman landed. Pending the inspection of such alien seaman, the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or commanding officer of the vessel upon which such alien seaman arrived shall be responsible for his presence on board such vessel or at such other place as may be designated for the purpose by the immigration officer, and such seaman shall not be allowed to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or in case of his death, or for the purpose of obtaining treasury relief, or for such other purpose as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, under such conditions as he may prescribe, and such seaman shall be deported in the same manner as provided in the case of other aliens ordered deported from the United States. Any seaman who fails to report for inspection or who fails to depart from the United States upon the vessel on board which he arrived, or upon some other vessel, within the period of time for which he was admitted, or who violates any of the conditions of his admission, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens convicted of violating the provisions of section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(b) Proof made as to any alien seaman who has not shipped upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain the inspection of such alien seaman by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien, he may cause such alien to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be finally relieved of the obligation to pay the expenses of such deportation until such alien seaman shall actually depart from the United States. (43 Stat. 164–166, 58 Stat. 818; 8 U. S. C. 181 (a), 181 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any American vessel entering or clearing from the ports of the United States, or transferred from one vessel to another in the United States, until such alien has been examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and certified by him to be physically and mentally able to perform the duties required by the immigration laws of the United States to be performed by such alien on board the vessel on which he seeks employment and to be in possession of a valid certificate issued by the Secretary of Labor, which certificate may be granted under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe: Provided, That no certificate shall be granted to any alien seaman who is afflicted with any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, or who is a member of any of the classes of aliens excluded from admission to the United States under section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 875; 8 U. S. C. 136), as amended by section 14 of the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168).

Sec. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel who employs on board such vessel in the United States any alien seaman (master inspection or in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner) who has been refused a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or who employs on board such vessel any alien seaman not in possession of such certificate, or who employs on board such vessel any alien seaman who has deserted from a vessel in a port of the United States and has not been issued a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or who employs on board such vessel any alien seaman who has been refused a certificate by the Secretary of Labor, or who employs on board such vessel any alien seaman who has been landed temporarily for medical treatment, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman employed.

(b) The master of any vessel bound for a port in the United States shall, before such vessel shall depart from any foreign port or place, cause a list or manifest to be made out containing the name of each alien seaman who is employed on board such vessel and such additional information relative to such alien seaman as may be required by the rules and regulations governing the application of this section, which list or manifest shall be produced whenever demanded by any immigration officer at the port of departure, and a certified copy thereof delivered to such officer, who shall indorse upon such list or manifest the name of each alien seaman who is allowed to depart from such port, and shall report to the immigration officer at the port of arrival the name of each alien seaman who departs on such vessel and who fails to do so, and the cause, if known, of such failure. Before granting clearance papers to any such vessel the collector of customs shall require the master to produce a certificate from the immigration officer at the port of departure that the list or manifest has been delivered as required by this section and that each alien seaman who is required by the provisions of this section to be listed thereon has been so listed, and unless such certificate be produced the collector of customs shall withhold clearance papers from such vessel. Upon the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States the master shall deliver to the immigration officer at such port a list or manifest of all alien seamen employed on board such vessel who have been discharged or who have died or deserted from such vessel since the departure from the last foreign port or place at which such vessel touched, and shall report the cause of death of any such seaman. Such list or manifest shall contain such further information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Any master who fails to comply with the requirements of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman specified in such list or manifest concerning whom he fails to comply with the requirements of this section.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a master has failed to comply with any of the provisions of this section, or any rule or regulation issued thereunder, he may refuse clearance to such vessel while in any port of the United States, and may cause the vessel to be searched at the expense of the master before departure from any port of the United States, and may take testimony in connection therewith. Any master who refuses to permit such search shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman was ordered deported from the United States and that the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States has been notified of such deportation order shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien seaman on board such vessel, or on a vessel of the same owners sailing under the same flag or nationality, unless such alien seaman shall have been granted permission to land in the United States, or unless such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall show that such alien seaman has been duly discharged in a foreign port and that the master has complied with the immigration laws relative thereto.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any alien seaman has been unduly delayed by the master or owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States, he may cause such alien seaman to be removed from the United States at the expense of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States, and may refuse clearance to such vessel while any such alien seaman remains in the United States after a reasonable period, except that clearance may be granted prior to the deportation of the alien seaman on board such vessel upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover the cost of such deportation, as determined by the Attorney General, or the giving of a bond satisfactory to the Attorney General. Such sum may be refunded, or such bond canceled, if the alien seaman is deported on board the vessel on which he arrived or on another vessel sailing from the port of arrival to the country to which such alien seaman belongs, or if it is established to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel has complied with the provisions of this section relative to the deportation of such alien seaman. Such sum may be remitted, or such bond canceled, if the Attorney General finds that deportation of such alien seaman was impracticable or unreasonable, or that such alien seaman has been permitted to land temporarily in the United States as a witness on behalf of the United States in the prosecution of any person charged with a violation of any of the provisions of this section, or any other criminal prosecution, and has been thereafter returned to the port from which he was so landed, or to any other port in the country to which he may be admitted.

(f) Any person who shall knowingly bring into the United States any alien seaman who has been refused a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or who has been deported, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and such alien seaman shall be deported to the country from which he came, or to any country willing to receive him, at the expense of the person bringing him into the United States.

(g) Any person who shall knowingly harbor any alien seaman who has been refused a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or who has been deported, or who has deserted from any vessel on which he was employed while such vessel was in a port of the United States, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and such alien seaman shall be deported to the country from which he came, or to any country willing to receive him, at the expense of the person harboring him.

(h) Any person who shall knowingly aid any alien seaman who has been refused a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or who has been deported, or who has deserted from any vessel on which he was employed while such vessel was in a port of the United States, to secure employment in the United States, or who shall knowingly employ any such alien seaman, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and such alien seaman shall be deported to the country from which he came, or to any country willing to receive him, at the expense of the person employing him.

(i) Any master who shall refuse to pay the wages of any alien seaman employed by him on board any vessel upon the ground that such alien seaman has been refused a certificate as provided in section 19 hereof, or has been deported, or has deserted from any vessel on which he was employed while such vessel was in a port of the United States, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof unless such alien seaman has been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence or unless he is in possession of a valid seaman's identification certificate issued to him by the Secretary of Labor or his authorized representative. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on board some other vessel within five days after notice to depart has been given him by the Secretary of Labor or his authorized representative shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended (U. S. C., title 8, sec. 155, 156). Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on board some other vessel within five days after notice to depart has been given him by the Secretary of Labor or his authorized representative shall, upon the order of the Secretary of Labor, be taken on board such vessel and placed under the control of the master, who shall cause him to be detained on board while in port and to be kept on board when the vessel leaves port, and who shall cause him to be delivered to the immigration officer at the next port of arrival of such vessel. Any alien seaman who shall desert from any vessel in the United States may be arrested in the manner provided for the arrest of other aliens illegally in the United States and shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of other aliens. Any alien seaman who shall remain in the United States for a period longer than five days after the vessel on which he arrived has departed without obtaining a new certificate or permit as provided for in this section shall be deported as provided for the deportation of other aliens illegally in the United States. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel arriving therein and who shall desert therefrom, or who shall remain therein for a longer period than is permitted by this section or by the regulations of the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported as provided for the deportation of other aliens illegally in the United States. Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily in the United States under the immediate supervision of an immigrant inspector for the purpose of receiving medical treatment, or who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to be destitute or afflicted with tuberculosis or other disease or disability which would probably result in his becoming a public charge, or who is under sixteen or over fifty years of age, or who is the husband or wife, or child under sixteen years of age, of a citizen of the United States, may be permitted to land in the United States, upon such terms as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, notwithstanding the provisions of this section. Any seaman who shall desert from any vessel in which he arrived in the United States or who shall remain in the United States after the departure of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States shall be deported as provided for the deportation of other aliens. Any alien seaman who shall be found in the United States in violation of this section or of any other law of the United States may be arrested and taken before a United States commissioner, judge, or court for a hearing to determine his status. The Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization is authorized to issue certificates of identification to seamen employed on board vessels arriving at ports of the United States, and to prescribe rules and regulations governing the granting of such certificates, the conditions under which they may be granted, and the form thereof. Such certificates may be granted to seamen employed on board vessels arriving at ports of the United States from foreign ports, upon application therefor, and may be granted to seamen employed on board vessels plying between ports of the United States, upon such conditions as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, approved by the Secretary of Labor. Such certificates shall be granted only to seamen found by the examining officer to be entitled thereto under the immigration laws and the rules and regulations made pursuant thereto. Such certificates may be granted to seamen employed on board vessels arriving at ports of the United States from foreign ports upon the payment of a fee not exceeding $10 in each case, as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may determine. Such certificates shall be granted to seamen employed on board vessels plying between ports of the United States upon the payment of a fee not exceeding $2 in each case, as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may determine.
